Bio:

Kim Anson is the General Manager of Elton Consulting. Prior to joining Elton in 2009, Kim was General Manager of two local government authorities (Waverley and Marrickville Councils) for a total of eight years (2001-2009) and Director of Corporate Services for two years previously at Waverley Council.

In these roles, Kim led strategic business planning, strategic and operational human resources and was responsible for corporate governance, financial management and Risk Management. Kim led significant income generation and cost reduction strategies at both Councils where she was General Manager, significantly improving their financial sustainability. She also led the production of the first Human Resources Strategic Plan, one of the first such plans for a Council in NSW.

Kim has advised and trained Councillors in Corporate Governance over an eight year period and managed Code of Conduct investigations at Waverley and Marrickville Councils. Prior to Codes of Conduct being mandated in local government, Waverley Council was the first Council to develop such a voluntary code, in association with Independent Commission against Corruption (ICAC). Kim led the production of the first Corruption Prevention Plan at Waverley Council, which ICAC indicated was one of the first in NSW.

Kim spent her early years in the community sector, working for non-for-profit Boards, including an Aboriginal Board in the Northern Territory. For the last five years, Kim served on the Board of a Rehabilitation Hospital as Treasurer. In these settings, she has reviewed and improved governance arrangements and supported improvements to financial and other systems.
